

About the company

Description of the company

Founded in 1856, sigikid is now in its fourth generation as a family business and has retained its unique flair for colour and design, which has always distinguished the brand and made it unique. The brand primarily covers the product areas of children's clothing and cuddly toys. Sigikid has its headquarters in Mistelbach, where all administrative, logistical and design-related areas of the company are located with around 200 employees.

Sustainability profile:

The company sigikid covers a wide range of children's products as well as children's clothing and strives to optimise sustainability standards, working conditions and also reduce emissions within the supply and value chain in all areas of the brand.

The regular audits carried out by external, certified inspection bodies at our production sites, which are mainly located in Asia, are entered and analysed internally in a Corrective Action Plan. sigikid maintains long-term business relationships of up to 20 years with all its suppliers. Trust on both sides of the business relationship is of great importance and enables both sides to work together as equals, with a strong focus on human co-operation.

The materials used for production are certified and comply with current environmental standards in order to meet the high demands of the target group. The majority of our manufacturers are certified by ICTI (International Council of Toy Industries) and the production conditions on site meet the requirements of the associated "ethical toy programme". The regular amfori BSCI audits additionally check and verify compliance with these ethical and labour standards.

Furthermore, issues such as energy efficiency and the reduction of emissions are constantly being reviewed, scrutinised and improved at the site itself in order to move the company towards a more environmentally friendly and climate-friendly future with the help of new processes.
